John Rubiner Appointed to Executive Council of the National Conference of Bar Presidents

Bird Marella Principal John Rubiner has been appointed to Executive Council of the National Conference of Bar Presidents (NCBP).

Founded in 1950, the primary mission of the NCBP is providing high-quality training and information to state and local bar leaders. Current organizational members include state, local and special focus bars from 53 states and territories, and members include past bar leaders from these jurisdictions. The Executive Council and committees consist of recent bar presidents who attended NCBP conferences when they were leading their respective bars, and who want to share their experiences and perspectives with current bar leaders.
