

Bird Marella Named Among the “Most Admired Law Firms to Work For”

Bird Marella is honored to be named among the Los Angeles Business Journal's 2021 list of Most Admired Law Firms. The publication recognized the organization as one of the top law firms to work for in Los Angeles. It also noted that Bird Marella is a standout in creating a diverse and supportive environment where attorneys can lead successful and growing practices.

The list honors companies based on several factors related to their corporate culture, compensation and benefits, work-life balance, and initiatives towards diversity and women's advancement.

The publication cites Bird Marella's multigenerational culture, boutique size, collegial atmosphere, pro bono work, and community involvement as key attributes to their success in creating a working environment where employees are able to develop their skills and can take pride in the impact of their work. Furthermore, the Los Angeles Business Journal highlights the advantages that associates receive at Bird Marella compared to most other firms, saying:

“Associates, in particular, enjoy several advantages in working at a boutique firm, such as access to substantive, hands-on experience earlier than they would in larger firms, substantial opportunity in pro bono work, and being able to work on high-profile and highly-publicized cases with distinguished attorneys. Due to this level of exposure and the firm's limited bureaucracy, associates at Bird Marella tend to advance their careers much faster than at larger firms.”

Bird Marella's unique culture, environment, and benefits attract top legal talent from some of the world's largest law firms and top law schools. A majority of the firm's attorneys attended Ivy League universities – 34% hail from Harvard, alone.
