Bird Marella Wins Complete Victory in $100M JAMS Arbitration for California Bank

Bird Marella attorneys Ekwan Rhow and Kate Shin successfully defended a prominent California-based bank in a JAMS arbitration case, defeating $100 million in alleged liabilities. The plaintiffs had alleged various fraud and contract claims and sought compensatory and punitive damages.

After a three-week arbitration and multiple rounds of briefing, the panel found for Bird Marella's client and rejected all of the plaintiff's claims.

Bird Marella has been victorious in three straight arbitrations that were litigated within the last six months. With an enviable record of success in both trial and arbitration, financial services, firms, and banking institutions retain Bird Marella for its industry expertise and commercial litigation excellence.
